DEATHS

William W. Blythe

APPOMATTOX — William Warde Blythe, 68, died at 2:18 a.m. Friday in Virginia Baptist Hospital. He was the husband of Dorothy Levi Blythe.

Born in Loudoun County, he was a son of William H. and Pearle Galloway Blythe. He was a retired Virginia State Police captain and a World War II Army veteran. He was member of St. Anne's Episcopal Church, where he served as vestryman, senior warden and on numerous committees. He was former dean of Farmville Episcopal convocation, member of executive board of diocese of Southeastern Virginia, a member of Appomattox Lions Club, Falling River Country Club and Lynchburg Sports Club.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by a son, W. W. Blythe Jr. of Lynchburg; two daughters, Miss Dorothy Suzanne Blythe of Fairfax and Mrs. Sandra B. Marcus of Berryville; two brothers, J. C. Blythe of Greenville, N. C. and Marion Blythe of Alexandria; three sisters, Mrs. Elsie Blanton and Mrs. Pearle Payne, both of Richmond, and Mrs. Virginia Baldwin of Sarasota, Fla.; and three grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted at 2 p.m. Sunday from Robinson Funeral Home, Appomattox, with the Rev. J. Harmon Smith officiating.

Graveside services were held at 11 a.m. Monday in Green Hill Cemetery, Berryville.

Those wishing to make memorials please consider St. Anne's Episcopal Church.

Public Meetings On Forest Management Practices Set

There are regulations in the works that are going to affect you - - as a timber harvester, forest landowner, or consuemr of wood and paper products. As you know the federal clean water law passed in 1972 called for all waters in the United States to be "swim-able and fish-able" by July 1983. The law also calls for no pollution - zero discharge - - by 1985. The Environmental Protection Agency is requiring each state to submit its plan for achieving these goals. While most states are choosing to comply with EPA by passing more laws and regulations, Virginia is one of four states opting for a non-regulatory program in the hopes that voluntary compliance with "best management practices" will help reduce erosion, runoff and sedimentation into our rivers and streams. Six "best management practices" handbooks are being written to cover "non-point" sources of pollution from farming operations, mining, urban runoff, sources affecting groundwater supplies, hydrologic modification, and forestry.

The forestry handbook has been written by a Forest Technical Committee and is now in a 2nd draft stage. Virginia Forestry Association has been part of a separate Public Advisory Committee reviewing the first two drafts. The 68 page handbook covers virtually every forestry operation that might affect water quality - - the layout of logging roads, site preparation, pesticide application, wildfire control, harvesting, replanting, etc. Thus the suggested "best management practices" (BMP's) of the handbook are offered as guidelines for loggers, forest landowners and to those interested in water quality.

However, before we proceed further with the writing of these BMP's we want to expand the public input. The success and continuation of Virginia's non-regulatory program will depend on the voluntary acceptance of the guidelines on the part of timber harvesters and forestland owners. If, in several years, Virginia cannot demonstrate that water quality has been substantially improved, we fear that the EPA will force a regulatory approach on us (perhaps taking our handbook and making it law). With the experience other states are having in regulated forest management (60 to 90 day delays in government approval of timber cutting plans, red tape and endless paperwork), we want to do everything possible to avoid further imposed federal regulations on private property. Thus, the reason for our holding public meetings is to explain the proposed guidelines for "Best Management Practices" and to receive comments by those who will be affected. The greater the input and participation at this stage, the better our chances of keeping the water quality program a voluntary one.

Six public meetings will be held. These are being sponsored cooperatively by the Virginia Division of Forestry, VPI Extension Service, Lumber Manufacturer's Association, and Virginia Forestry Association.

Following these six public meetings, a third and final draft will be written and submitted to the State Water Control Board by Sept. 1, 1978. The BMP's Handbook will be printed, and one official public hearing will be held in October (required by federal law) to receive comments on the forestry and five other handbooks. Following the October public hearing the six handbooks wil become part of the Virginia Plan submitted by Governor Dalton to the EPA.

You should be hearing more about our six public meetings through your local news media and Extension office, but we wanted you to have this information now so that you may plan to attend and participate in the meeting nearest you. These guidelines for "best management practices" will affect the day-to-day operations of timber harvesters and the cost of logging private tree farms.

Greater love hath no man than this; that a man lay down his life for his friends. John 15:13

Mr. Dallas Moore is in Charlottesville Hospital. He will undergo surgery on Tuesday. We do hope he will have a quick recovery.

Mr. Hop Elliott came home on Friday after a two week stay in the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Keading of Ill. and Mrs. Ray Metz of Indiana went home Thursday morning.

Mr. I. B. Wheeler will go to Lynchburg Thursday to consult an eye doctor.

Mrs. I. B. Wheeler has been indisposed for a while; she is much improved. Those visiting her over the weekend were Mr. and Mrs. Ben Wheeler, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Jones and family, Mrs. Mary Lucy Stratton, Mrs. Verna Herndon and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Ray Burnette.

Mrs. Hazel Gallispie, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Roupe and family came home on Wed. from Fla.

There were about 100 at the Stratton reunion held at Hebron Church on Sunday. Such a nice time was had by all.

Baseball Coach Named For Longwood College

FARMVILLE, July 13 - Charles Buddy Bolding of Roanoke has been named head baseball coach at Longwood College.

Bolding comes to Longwood from Staunton River High School in Moneta, where he has coached for the past three years. He succeeds Dr. William McAdams, who resigned as baseball coach to accept an administrative position on the high school level.

After assuming the position of varsity baseball coach for the Staunton River Eagles in 1976, Bolding took a team that had come off a 1-18 season to an 8-12 record and was voted runner-up Coach of the Year. The following year he was named Coach of the Year after leading the Eagles to the best won-lost record in the school's history and the Pioneer District Championship. In 1978 Bolding succeeded in rebuilding his team after graduating seven starters, and Staunton River captured second place in the district.

Bolding also coached cross country, track, basketball, and football at Staunton River and taught biology, health, and physical education.

A 1967 graduae of Staunton River, Bolding pitched for his high school team and was Most Valuable Player for two years. In 1966 he was High School Athlete of the Year for Bedford County. He also played for Carson Newman College, the Massachusetts Hosmer Chiefs, the Elizabethtown, Tennessee team and the Moneta Amateur League Team.

Bolding received his B.S. from Milligan College and his Master's degree from the University of Tennessee.

At Longwood, Bolding will coach a team that was 0-13 in its first season of varsity competion last spring; however, he considers himself "a worker and a program builder," and is presently working hard to recruit players.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Bolding of Vinton.

Eating Well

By Mrs. Barbara L. Morlang, R.D., Ph. D.
State Nutrition Consultant
Virginia Department of Health

Minerals as well as vitamins are essential for good health and for growth. Minerals have two functions in our bodies: building and regulating. Their building functions affect the skeleton and all soft tissues. Their regulating functions include a wide variety of systems, such as heartbeat, blood clotting, maintenance of the internal pressure of body fluids, nerve responses, and transport of oxygen from the lungs to the tissues.

Sodium and chloride are two minerals which combine to form sodium chloride (table salt), but each has separate functions in the body. Sodium helps to maintain the normal water balance inside and outside of our cells. Chloride is part of hydrochloric acid, which is found in high concentrations in the gastric juice and is very important in the digestion of food in the stomach.

The daily American diet provides a high intake of sodium, much of which is added to food as salt. Foods high in sodium content include many processed foods, such as ham, bacon, sausage, cheese, sauerkraut, frankfurters, bread, and some crackers because salt or sodium compounds are added in processing.

A reduction of salt intake is often prescribed by physicians to lower the sodium intake of persons with high blood pressure, kidney disease, and cirrhosis of the liver. A decrease in sodium intake can help to reduce the amount of water retained in the body (edema), which many times is associated with these diseases.

B&W Receives $109.4 Million In Department Of Energy Contracts

NEW YORK, N. Y. - The Babcock and Wilcox Company announced today it has received contract awards totaling $109.4 million from the Department of Energy.

The orders include work for the U. S. Navy's nuclear propulsion program. Currently included among the nuclear powered ships in the Navy are submarines, aircraft carriers, and cruisers.

The work will be performed at the company's Naval Nuclear Fuel Division in Lynchburg, Virginia.

Babcock and Wilcox and its subsidiaries design, manufacture, and market steam generating and associated equipment, steel tublar products, refractories, automated machine tools, and erect energy systems and components. B&W's annual shipments exceed $1.8 billion.

Tea ranks as the most popular drink in more countries than any other beverage. Among the Western nations, Great Britain uses the most tea, importing about 300 million pounds yearly, according to The World Book Encyclopedia. That's enough to brew 100 billion cups!

Beekeepers Met Here Saturday

On Saturday, July 22, the Virginia State Beekeepers Association met at the WOW hall.

The annual meeting proved to be one of the best ever with over 100 beekeepers and their families present. Of this group, around 30 were present for the first time. There were, also several guests from North Carolina.

There was a honey contest with a variety of light and dark honey exhibited. Beekeepers reported an excellent crop of sourwood available. An auction was held for the Gadget Corner.

Ronnie Spiggle, Mayor-Elect of the Town of Appomattox, gave the welcome Saturday at the Virginia State Beekeepers Association meeting held here at the W.O.W. building.

Henry Weatherford won a 1st and 2nd place prize; James Reese won a 2nd place prize; Gilbert Mays won two 1st place prizes; and Tac Hubbard won a 1st place prize at the meeting of the Virginia State Beekeepers Association Saturday.

WOW Donates To Rescue Squad

Last week the Woodmen of the World Camp 71 and Grove 6073 donated $3400 in equipment to the Appomattox County Rescue Squad. The donation went to purchase a LifePak 5 and a Via Phone that will enable rescue squad personnel to "hook-up" patients suspected of heart ailments so that they can be monitored by the coronary care unit at a Lynchburg hospital while en route to the hospital. The local rescue squad now has two emergency vehicles with this type equipment.
